SOME NEW POTATOES.

Three Varieties That Appear to Be of Unusual Worth.

Originating new varieties of potatoes from the seed soil is a matter of great importance to the potato industry. It frequently happens that not one out of many thousands will prove of any great value. All the labor of growing and proving these seedlings is lost, and when the originator does get a really valuable seedling potato he has to put the price high enough to cover the cost of all expense of the thousands of worthless ones he has had to bring forth to find one of real value.

The Merrill is a new seedling that has been grown long enough to prove its worth. It is a white potato of the Green Mountain type, a strong, vigorous grower, a great yielder and of good quality. In 1906 it far outyielded that immense cropper, the Norcross.

The Star of the East is another new seedling of the Hebron type. It is as near being blight proof as any potato I have ever seen. It is medium late, and the tubers are of fine quality, and it is a very heavy cropper. The vines are dark green, strong and vigorous, and this potato will grow a good crop of market tubers when most others fall and on account of its good quality will be largely grown wherever it becomes known.

The Clyde is another new potato which those that know it claim will take the place of the Green Mountain. It produced fine, smooth tubers that weighed nearly three pounds each the second year from the seed soil. The tubers are smooth and of nice shape and will stand for a long time without growing rot, and the quality is excellent. The vines are very dark green with many blossoms. A potato that will not produce plenty of blossoms is of scant vigor. Any one wishing to get a large yield must look for plenty of blossoms and a long period of bloom.

The three potatoes described above have been carefully bred, states a grower in American Cultivator. As paris green or arsenic in any form injures the vitality of any potato on which it is used to kill insects, none has been used on these, and they are full of their natural vigor, which means large crops and money made by the grower.

THE FARM WOOD LOT.
Lumber Sure to Become More Valuable as Time Passes.
Since wood for every purpose is sure to become more valuable as time passes, it is worth while for the far-sighted farmer to see to it now that his wood lot is so handled as to yield the largest possible supply of this slow growing crop.

The following suggestions regarding the management of the farm wood lot have been compiled from the publications of the experiment stations and of the forest service. The farmer should aim to maintain and if possible improve the value of his wood lot while using it. Too often it deteriorates under use. If he cuts the best trees or those which are easiest to work up, he leaves the weed trees, as foresters call them—that is, the useless trees, which crowd out and displace good trees—to reproduce.

One aim should be kept up, and that is to increase the supply of the kinds of trees which it pays best to grow. While a large part of the product of the wood lot will generally be firewood, it will pay the farmer better to grow as large a product as possible of railroad ties, telegraph and telephone poles and saw logs.

A High Quality of Product.
A high quality of product will depend not only upon the kinds of trees, but on the size of the trees. A large tree is worth much more proportionately than a small tree because of the better quality of its product.

The farmer should always see to it that his land is fully stocked.

Before a Tree Is Cut.
The farmer should cut his trees so as to benefit the forest. The branchy, wide spreading tree, the crooked tree or the tree of a kind which is not likely to prove salable is the best for him to cut when he is getting out his supply of firewood. This gives room for the better trees near by to grow, as well as opening the ground for reproduction.

Before a tree is cut it should be noted what trees will take advantage of the cut. Care should be taken in cutting to do as little harm to young growth (often regarded as brush) as possible.

White Oak For Coopersage.
In connection with the use of de-natured alcohol for various purposes, the following in regard to tight coopersage is of interest:

An industry more completely dependent upon one species of timber than is tight coopersage would be hard to find. Tight coopersage depends upon white oak, and white oak of good quality.

A single defect in a stave or head may cause the loss of the contents of the entire package. For alcoholic liquors only the best white oak will serve. Stock of this grade is always in demand and commands the highest price. In quantity, oil and three coopersage ranks first, but since this grade is very largely made from timber which will not make alcoholic stock it can in one sense be termed a second grade, though this refers to the sawed staves.—H. M. Hale.

Sowing Cabbage Seed.
Cabbage seed should be sown at frequent intervals so that we have a continuous supply of just the right sized plants for some weeks, says a writer in Farm and Fireside. I saw Danish Railroad ties in April and all through May, Sorehead or others of the Fiat Dutch type somewhat later and Early Winterset even up to the end of June.

Armour, Swift, Cudahy and Morris Accepted 12-Cent "Comeback" Per 100 Pounds on Product Shipped Abroad.

St. Paul, April 30.—Judge Sanborn yesterday filed the opinion of the United States circuit court of appeals affirming the judgment of the United States district court for the western district of Missouri against the packers for accepting concessions of 12 cent per 100 pounds from the established rate for the transportation of provisions on through bills of lading from Kansas City to Christiania and other points in foreign countries.

Judge Hook and Adams concurred in the opinion, which was written by Judge Sanborn.

The defendants involved in the decision are: Armour Packing company, Swift & Co., Morris & Co., and the Cudahy Packing company.

DR. HILLIS URGES SLAYING OF CZAR.
"Rules By Devil Right and Deserves Fate of Charles I," Says Divine.

New York, April 30.—The Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, at a meeting Sunday night of the society of Friends of Russian Liberty at Plymouth church, Brooklyn, came out strongly in favor of a Russian revolution and the destruction of the Czar and the grand dukes.

"If any American, with his ancestry and training, should move to Russia today, he would be a revolutionist, mixing saltpeetre and sulphur five minutes after he crossed the border," said Dr. Hillis.

"There are times and conditions," said Dr. Hillis, "under which restraint and moderation are an insult to Almighty God." He went on to tell of some of the atrocities committed upon the people by members of the present government, how 250,000 men and women were "officially murdered" in the last year, when the Czar ruled, not by divine right, but by "devil right and demon power," and he and his grand dukes deserve the same fate as that which overtook Charles I of England."

TESTED AND PROVEN

There Is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well Earned Reputation.

For months Barre readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. Lewis Marrott, of 24 Maple Ave., Barre, Vt., says: "Three years ago Mr. Marrott gave a statement in which he told what a world of good Doan's Kidney Pills had done him. He had suffered for over two years with a heavy, dull pain in his back and through his hips. His back was weak and sometimes he would have sharp shooting pains across the loins. There was also trouble with the kidney secretions which were unnatural and full of sediment. He learned of Doan's Kidney Pills through a friend who has used them and procuring a box he began using them. He soon noticed they were helping him and after taking four boxes the pain had left his back and the kidney secretions had become natural and clear. He uses them now whenever he feels any slight return of the trouble and they never fail to give prompt relief. Our advice to anyone suffering from backache or kidney trouble is to procure Doan's Kidney Pills at E. A. Druggists drug store and give them a trial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

HOLDS THAW EXHIBITS.
Supreme Court Denies Peabody's Applications.

New York, April 30.—Justice Fitzgerald in the supreme court yesterday refused to sign an order giving into the custody of A. Russell Peabody the exhibits of the defense in the Thaw trial. Mr. Peabody, who is one of Thaw's regular attorneys, had asked that all the exhibits, including the letters offered before the lunacy commission, be turned over to him. The exhibits are now in the custody of the clerk of the court before which Thaw was tried.
